President's Message

“Seven years ago, Annette and I joined the Roanoke Catholic community when our daughter, Elizabeth, began second grade. Today, we have two daughters attending Roanoke Catholic, with our youngest, Emma, currently a second-grader. Annette and I believe that a Roanoke Catholic education is the most treasured investment we can make in our children. The Roanoke Catholic community fosters spiritual growth, educational excellence, and the cocurricular development of each student. As your Principal and Head of School, I encourage all of you to come visit our campus and reconnect with our wonderful school community.”

—Patrick Patterson, Principal and Head of School

Kathleen Futrell, Academic Advisor and Upper School Assistant Principal

“It truly is a blessing to be in my fifteenth year on staff at Roanoke Catholic School. When I began, the class of 2002 was in eighth grade; this June, they will be celebrating their ten-year reunion! From teaching world history and English to serving as Academic Advisor and Upper School Assistant Principal, the time spent and experiences shared have filled me with wonder. Your great works and many accomplishments speak to your commitment to all we profess. I thank God for the opportunity to be at RCS, and I thank each of you for believing in our mission.”

Julie Frost, Lower School Assistant Principal

“Chuck and I moved to Roanoke the summer of 2010 so he could take the job as Pastoral Associate for St. Andrews Church. We knew it was God’s call but were sad to leave our family and friends in Savannah, Ga., where our children grew up. However, we quickly fell in love with the Roanoke Valley, especially the mountains that reminded us of living in Alaska ten years ago. Our boys, Joshua and Jonah, immediately became immersed in the RCS community and absolutely love it here. When God calls, sometimes we don’t hear as well as we should. This was the case with me as I considered applying for the job of Assistant Principal. After many subtle nudges and one big push, I interviewed and accepted this position and have loved every minute of it. This community is so supportive and gracious. God certainly does know what we need, even when we don’t. Thank you for embracing our family and helping to make RCS such a great place to work.”

Retirements

Sue Thompson, Lower School Principal

“My retirement is such a blessing! It has given me an opportunity to reflect on the thirty-three wonderful years I was blessed to serve at Roanoke Catholic. I met so many incredible families and made so many friends that I can rarely leave home without meeting someone I know from RCS. It’s such a special place—one I wish all of my grandchildren could attend. I will continue to be involved with RCS for life; it’s an integral part of me. I will also pray for the administrators, teachers, staff, parents, and students every day, knowing God will bless this wonderful community.”

Bonnie Sartini, First Grade Teacher and former RCS parent

“Roanoke Catholic School is a school with rich traditions. For more than 125 years, RCS has provided strong education within a Christian environment. As we move forward, we will blend the best of the past with innovations of the future. Our mission is to blend faith with learning and learning with daily life so that our students can do as the lyrics of a popular song say, which is to ‘take your candle, go light the world,’ by serving Christ and one another.”

J. Barry Whitt, Upper School Science Teacher

“I look back over the past twenty-eight years and find myself blessed. I am blessed to have worked under the guidance of dedicated administrators, blessed to have been associated with concerned parents who love their children enough to have sacrificed to have them here, blessed to have worked with such diligent and committed teachers and staff, and blessed to have had the opportunity to come to know so many wonderful people as students. I am thankful to have spent so much of my life here. God has smiled on me.”

Academics

Dance

“The dance program at Roanoke Catholic is an opportunity for students to be introduced to the basics of dance, including ballet, tap, jazz, and hip hop. I want students to develop a love of dance that may last a lifetime, and to “dance from the heart, not just with their feet.” This is also an opportunity to learn to express themselves through movement, which can be very powerful, and to familiarize themselves with the steady beat and ways they can move to music. Students are given two opportunities throughout the school year to perform in front of an audience: at Our Lady of the Valley in December for the nursing home residents and any parents who want to attend, and at the school talent show in the spring. We had roughly forty students participate last year and our numbers are about the same this year, with four different classes offered based on grade level. My hope is that the program will grow and become a part of the regular school day, not just an after-school program. I would also like for us to eventually have a portable dance floor, become a competitive team and travel for training and competitions, and have a summer dance program made available. We currently have our own Roanoke Catholic Dance t-shirts and I’m hoping to soon have costumes.”

—Mitzi Keely, Program Director

Drama

“It’s my pleasure to bring the world of drama and theatre to Roanoke Catholic with the Renaissance drama class. The arts are extremely important to the growth of young people, and the wonderful thing about theatre is that it encompasses them all. Statistics show that students who successfully complete a theatre or speech class are over 50% more likely to be successful in college and the work force. The drama program at Roanoke Catholic will be a taste of everything theatre arts has to offer. From acting to directing, playwriting to the world of technical theatre—and even design elements such as costumes, scenes, lighting, sound, props, and more—everything will be included. I’ve been a member of the Roanoke Catholic community for over 21 years and sent four of my own children through this wonderful institution, and I always felt a bit sad that theatre had been missing from the RCS curriculum. I’m glad to be a part of bringing theatre and the arts back to this school.”

—Larry VanDeventer, Program Director

National Parks Experience

“The curriculum-based youth adventures of National Parks Experience provides a unique educational opportunity designed to increase students’ knowledge of the environment, foster an appreciation of nature, and develop self-confidence and outdoor skills. The combination of classroom instruction with field experience also creates an educational program that is innovative and life changing.

The program began in 2007 with a trip to Grand Canyon National Park. That year, eight students took part in a three-day backpacking trip down the Bright Angel Trail. With the guidance of an instructor from the Grand Canyon Field Institute, students learned about the geology, ecology, and history of the Grand Canyon, as well as outdoor skills. Because of the overwhelming success of this first trip, a second trip was taken in 2009.

The National Parks Experience is an accredited class at Roanoke Catholic. In the mornings before school, a group of students participate in a class relating to one of three national parks: Grand Canyon, Yosemite or Yellowstone. Instruction focuses on the ecology, geology, natural history, and human history of the park, and the curriculum is developed in cooperation with each park’s field institutes. During spring break, students travel to a national park for a week-long backpacking trip, which provides the opportunity to see and experience what they have been reading about and discussing in class. This year’s trip will be to Yosemite National Park. To prepare for the physical demands of an extended backpacking trip, training hikes are taken around the local Appalachian Mountains. During these trips, students gain experience in several outdoor skills, including preparation of meals, packing a backpack, setting up tents, proper clothing, hydration, and the practice of ‘leave no trace’ camping.”

—Joe Sweeney, Program Director

Virginia Western Community College Partnership

Roanoke Catholic students have the opportunity to earn college credits in engineering career studies, advanced technology in mechatronics, or culinary arts. The Regional Academy for Advanced Technology is a career-pathways focused program designed to provide students, who aspire to higher learning, with an interactive and engaging educational challenge. Interested students apply to the academy in spring of their sophomore year for fall classes. RCS presently has three juniors—Patrick Macher, Alex Sakalas, and Stefani Via—enrolled in engineering career studies. These students have the opportunity to earn up to thirty-six college credits in this two-year program. After attending VWCC classes in the morning, students continue their academic day at Roanoke Catholic.

Debt Payoff

We are pleased to report that the $275,000 line of credit established at the end of the 2007-08 school year has been paid off. Reducing debt ahead of schedule is one of the many ways the head of school and director of finance at Roanoke Catholic are dedicated to making sound financial decisions.

Admissions

The 2011-2012 school year started with 466 students, twenty more than we ended with last year. There are seventy-seven new faces in grades Pre-K through 12, with the largest growth in the ninth grade (thirteen new students). During October, November, and December, we also have five students, who range in age from fourteen to sixteen, visiting RCS from Guatemala. So far, they are having a wonderful visit with their host families. This program is an asset to the cultural enrichment of the current students. In other news, the school recently made a commercial that is now airing on both Fox 21/27 and the CW. If you would like to see the commercial, visit the Roanoke Catholic School Facebook page.
